DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's response to the first office action of September 28, 2001, submitted February 21, 2001 (Paper No. 8) is acknowledged.

Applicant's remarks and amendments submitted February 21, 2002 in Paper No. 8 are persuasive to remove the claim objections and rejection under 35 USC 112, 2nd paragraph, in the previous office action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Glenn et al. (USPN 5,980,898).

Glenn et al. (USPN 5,980,898) teaches a transcutaneous immunization formulation comprising antigen and an adjuvant applied to unbroken skin and without perforation of the skin induces an immune response, see abstract particularly. Glenn et al. (USPN 5,980,898) further teaches that the antigen may be derived from a virus, see col. 3, lines 64-65. Among the viruses that can be used in the practice of the invention Glenn teaches hepatitis, influenza, measles and vaccinia, see particularly col. 9, line 13-24.

Glenn et al. (USPN 5,980,898) does not teach the method of inactivating the viruses, neither does it teach the size of the antigenic particles in nm.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to inactivate the viruses by any of the widely known methods in the art. As to the particle size, note that the claimed particle size must include non-intact virus.

One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to employ any of the viruses taught in Glenn et al. in a transcutaneous immunization formulation because they are known to be useful in transcutaneous formulations used to induce an immune response. Furthermore the different methods of inactivating viruses is within the purview of the Skilled Artisan.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed on February 21, 2002 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The amendment to claims 1 and 18, replacing "comprising" to "consisting essentially of" does not overcome the obviousness rejection in the previous office action. Note that the addition of an adjuvant to the composition employed in the claimed method herein does not change the basic and novel characteristics of the invention because an adjuvant is primarily responsible for enhancing the immune response to a particular antigen of interest.

Note also that there is no data comparing the efficacy of the claimed method employing an adjuvant-free composition to that of the prior art. No unexpected results have been demonstrated.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
